

ORGANIZED LABOR
IS NOT OPPOSED TO IMPROVEMENTS

Gompers Says Men Ready
To Help Increase Production.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Organized labor will welcome whatever assistance research and science can offer to modern industry. President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor told delegates gathered here today from the preliminary conference on industrial research.
A part of organized labor's own work has been directed toward the scientific study on conditions surrounding production and to the assembling of data.
"A peristent effort has been made to saddle upon labor the adum of opposition to improve methods and machinery in productions," Gompers said. "This is not true as a general statement. What labor has opposed is an effort to exploit them by the use of improvements that are intended as a blessing to mankind. Labor is rightly suspicious of changes which are introduced without explanation, and whose effect upon their welfare is not considered."

For Once the Evening
News Hesitates at Threshold of Duty—

It is not the desire of those connected with the Evening News to hold up public contempt and scorn the secret vices of any member of society when no apparent good may be accomplished in so doing, nor is it our desire to prescribe a code of morals for those who read the paper, but when a chronic sore appears in the very heart of the city and to be a more or less hidden sin is added an interference with a public business it becomes the duty of the paper to speak in no uncertain terms.
However, the matter will be referred to only in this general and mysterious manner for the present, hoping that the parties at fault may read between the lines and cease to tempt us, for as surely as certain stealthy forms continue to climb a certain dark stairway and interfere with the performance of a public duty, we will cease to generalize and will proceed in a very painstaking manner to strip the silk socks of conventionality from the rancid feet of lust and lay before the public the details of a revolting but most interesting story.

WOULD AVERT COLLAPSE OF LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

By the Associated Press
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 10.—J. H. Mercer, Kansas livestock commissioner and secretary of the Kansas Livestock association, today made public a letter addressed to federal reserve bank officers and officials of other banks, asserting that the livestock industry of the nation faced a collapse and urged them to meet with producers and packers to consider means of stabilizing the industry.
The commissioner said today, that if favorable replies were received he would issue a call for a conference in Kansas City of Chicago.
"If the livestock industry should collapse, it would make a lot of other things with it," Mr. Mercer said, adding that "the financiers ought to realize that it is the basis of the country and must be sustained for the good of business generally."

LOST AVIATORS

By the Associated Press
GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 13.—Coast guard officials here this morning expressed the opinion that the crew of the missing seaplane, F-2-L, lost in Lake Michigan, had perished. They said that boats which had been searching for the crew had returned to port, Lake Michigan was still choppy this morning.

THE CHURCH

When one goes back home for a little visit whether he goes to church elsewhere or not, one of the things he wants to do there is to go to the church of his childhood, and sit in the old pew, and let memory cast its spell.

As he sits there, heaven comes down to greet him. The noblest and best things in life get the right of way. The faces of the saints appear, and the call of God is vocal in his heart. He goes out with the call of the eternal on him; and duty must be plainer and courage easier for that hour in the old church.

There is an awful void in the life that has grown up without a church. Parents have emptied the lives of their children of vast resources for faithful and heroic deeds who have deprived them of the associations which hang around a church.

The church stands for our highest thoughts our purest loves, our cleanest motives, our holiest faiths, and our most unselfish deeds. It is the meeting place of friends whose devotion to each other is sweetened and sanctified by the sacrament of God. It is life's holy of holies where contact is had with the shrine ineffable. It is where God pulls back the curtain and reverence looks in on things divine.

It is to the church we come to receive the waters of baptism, and it is to the church we come to have the tears of grief wiped away. It is there the marriage song is sung and the troth plighted that weds 'till death shall part. Then, when the day is done and our work is over, it is to the church they carry the face, quit of its fever forever, to speak across its dissolution the messages of immortal hope.

I cannot understand people who sneer at the church.

WALL STREET DYNAMITE MYSTERY
MAY BE SOLVED BY NEWSPAPER

Evening World Presents
Evidence Pointing To a
Wreckers' Union.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The driver of the wagon which drew the explosive which killed thirty-seven persons and wounded hundreds September 16, last, in Wall street, remained in the vicinity for forty-eight minutes afterward, the Evening World declared today in continuing presentation of evidence in "solution of the explosion mystery."

The newspaper claimed that the explosive, a giant dynamite bomb, was sent to a building raising gang at Broad and Wall streets in a murder plot by outraged individuals, or sympathizers with William Zrank's House Wreckers Union 95, in revenge against members of the building trades council local, which had supplanted Zrank's men on the job.

The "fact" of the wagon driver's presence in the vicinity of the explosion for so long, illustrating the failure of the police to act with reasonable intelligence," said the paper was bought out yesterday by the publication of the picture in the Evening World, showed the driver on the sidewalk bridge in front of the building next to the sidewalk in front of the building next to the Stock Exchange with three other men after the explosion.

FREELING BUSY ON RED RIVER CASES

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Briefing of Oklahoma's argument of the Red river case to be presented to the supreme court on December 15, will occupy the exclusive attention of Attorney General Freeling from now until he leaves to attend court in Washington, Freeling said yesterday.

Record of testimony regarding the boundary, taken last summer in Oklahoma and Texas by a commissioner appointed by the court, is being printed now and is expected to be delivered by the clerk of the supreme court on November 20, Freeling said. Upon facts brought out in the testimony the argument will be based in large measure.

Oklahoma's brief, Freeling said, will attempt to answer the following questions in the affirmative: first, did the supreme court in the Greer county case hold that the south bank of the river is the line between Texas and the United States? Second, did the treaty of 1819 between Spain and the United States fix the boundary as the south bank of the Red river? Contemporary documents of the time the treaty was signed will be introduced to answer the second question. Freeling said. The brief is expected also to attack Texas' contention that it has owned the land to the middle of the river for a long time and has exercised jurisdiction over it.

Raw Sugar Drops.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Raw sugar dropped to 6 1/4 cents a pound, a new low price for the season in the sugar market, here today. The price reflects heavy slack in demand, and is a loss of more than 17 cents from the highest of the season's quotation last May.

HARDING RESTING
FOR PANAMA TRIP

POINT ISABEL, Nov. 13.—Kept off the Point Isabel fishing grounds by a cold northerner and virtually marooned on the land side by almost impassable roads, President-elect Harding remained at his seashore cottage here today winding up his vacation week with a complete rest. He hopes to get out for some more tarpon fishing Monday, Tuesday he expects to play a game of golf at Brownsville, when he motors there to meet Governor Hobby of Texas. He probably will remain there over Tuesday night and will leave Wednesday morning on a special train for New Orleans to sail on a voyage to Panama.

HARDING TO PARTICIPATE IN ELKS MEMORIAL

POINT ISABEL, Tex., Nov. 9.—Except for an engagement made several months ago to speak on December 5 in Bedford, Va., at an Elks' memorial service Harding has no appointments for public speeches between now and inauguration. He may however, and may also deliver one or two addresses on particular subjects before March 4.
Senator Harding is ardently devoted to the Elks. His address at the Bedford memorial services is to be void of any political or partisan nature. Harding the republican will fade into the background and it will be Harding the American instead.

Experience Indeed.
"Oh, madame, I almost broke my neck!"
"Well, Marie, I'd have you remember that anything you break here will be taken out of your wages!"

Shipping Board Investigation
Reveals Juicy Side
Payments.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Testimony concerning "commissions" paid engineers on shipping vessels by supply firms was given today at the congressional investigation into the shipping board affair.
Miss Elizabeth Moorehouse, accountant and treasurer of the Bird-Archer company, manufacturer of chemicals, said "presents" to buyers on the board were charged up to salesmen as advertising.
Her testimony was corroborated by Albert Waycott, employed by the company as a salesman in 1918. Refreshing her memory from an affidavit which she made in July, 1918, now part of the Walsh committee records, she declared engineers were paid $10 on each 20-gallon keg of material sold and $5 for each 10-gallon keg. Such "presents" amounted to about 10 to 20 percent of the firms advertising account, she said. Asserting that the $5 and $10 keg rates were "standard," Waycott declared it was a regular custom to make gifts to engineer officers and entertain them. These presents, he said, amounted to about $6,000.
Questioned, he said these gratuities were not charged up to the shipping board and the board received the goods at wholesale prices. The gratuities "came out of the firm's profits," he added. He further testified that amounts paid engineers came of the firm's pocket—and the shipping board was not defrauded out of a "single cent."

Paul Holley's Home
On Armistice Day

If you had passed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holley Thursday at noon, and had seen Paul out in the yard doing hand springs and throwing his hat in the air and shouting, you probably would have thought that he was celebrating the second anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended the world war. It is true that Armistice Day is an occasion for much joy on earth, but Armistice Day, 1920, will go down in history as a day of much more significance to Mrs. and Mrs. Holley.

A friend of the family mentioned it to the News this morning. This friend, it seems, was at the Holley home last night and saw Paul looking in vain for something about the great event in the News.

"Why dearie, they didn't say a word about it," he said, turning to Mrs. Holley.

Who knows what passed through Paul's mind because of the terrible sin of omission on our part?

And so we're going to tell you all about it today.

"It's a girl," Paul told us over the phone. "Born at noon Thursday. Everybody happy."

The proud father is proprietor of the Holley drug store on Main street. The head of the House of Holley is but nineteen years old, and still feels like a bridegroom.

Discarded Poetry.
"When I was young," remarked the reminiscent citizen, "children were taught to recite 'Little Drops of Water, Little Grains of Sand.'"

"I remember, but if that were attempted now, people would think they were referring to dilutions of beverages or adulteration or sugar."

Oddly enough, the car drivers who are not going anywhere always appear to be in a hurry.

What Does it Cost to be in Ada's Well Dressed Circle?

What do the best dressers in Ada spend for their clothes? How much does it cost to be in "the well-dressed circle"? Of course there are some men in Ada who spend as much as the best dressers for their clothes, yet are slovenly in appearance. How much more does it cost to look well groomed and neat than slipshod and slovenly?

The News seeks to answer these questions by opening the wardrobes of Ada's best dressers. We have pried into the secret of how they do it.

We are told by one writer that "as the index tells us the contents of stories and directs to the particular chapter," even so do clothes give us a taste of the spirit and point "all the internal quality of the soul."

Lord Chesterfield admonished that pour clothes are well made and fit you.

And that is the secret of the well-dressers—a little effort and a little pride in personal appearance. H. F. Mathis, assistant county attorney for Pontotoc county, was the first to catch the eye of the News reporter. Mr. Mathis is always neatly and carefully groomed. He has passed from that stage of life where one's thoughts are all ways light and fanciful, yet his appearance always has a peculiar touch of youth and buoyancy.

"How do you do it?" the News reporter asked.

"Just a habit," he answered. "A little more effort is all it costs."

Silk Shirt Three Years Old.
Mr. Mathis paid $10 for the hat he is wearing. He bought it this fall. He also bought his overcoat this fall, paying $28 for it. He pays an average of $3 for his shirts. He has one silk shirt which he bought three years ago, but which is still in good shape. He paid $5 for that shirt. He has several suits but is partial to two of them. These cost between $35 and $50. He has not bought any new suits this year. The last was bought in the fall of 1919, and still looks new. He pays 75 cents a pair for his socks, mostly silk-lisle.

"How many neckties do you buy during the year?" the reporter asked.

"Not many," he said. "I buy one or two each season, and wear the old ones during the week. I keep the new ones for special occasions."

The reporter did not ask what these special occasions were.

Mr. Mathis spends about $1.50 a month for cleaning and pressing at the tailor's. His laundry bill amounts to about a dollar a week.

Scouts Meet in Regular Session
At Headquarters

The members of Troop 1 met at the scout headquarters last night in what proved to be one of the most interesting meetings this year. The meeting was not altogether business, as about an hour was spent in making "speeches" and telling jokes. Those who were not present have reason to regret it.

After the regular business had been disposed of and settled to the satisfaction of everyone, more important and interesting business was discussed. Some of these were about the circulating library, getting equipment for entertainment at the meetings, such as checkers, cards and dominoes, putting on stunts, and last but not least, talk was made of a big dinner and social to be given to members and friends in the near future. This will be decided on at the next meeting and all who want to be in on it had better be present.

The next regular meeting will be held at the scout headquarters and the house will be called to order at 7:30, Friday night, November 19. If you are a member of this troop be sure to come.

TRESTLE BLOWN UP
IN MINE DISTRICT

By the Associated Press
WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Nov. 12.—The Norfolk and West trestle over the Grapevine creek at Thacker near here and the drum house of the Matta May company, fifteen miles from Williamson, were blown up early this morning. State police with blood hounds have been sent to the scene of the explosion. The explosion occurred in the heart of the coal strike zone in Mingo county and marks a renewal of violence in that district after a period of twenty-four hours quiet. Federal troops were removed from the field recently.

STEAMERS COLLIDE IN NEW YORK HARBOR

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Spanish mail steamer, Monsterrat from Cadiz with 379 passengers from New York, Mexico and the West Indies and the steamer San Larcos, arrived from Galveston, were in collision off Staten Island this morning.
The Spanish line's agent reported at 11 o'clock that the Monsterrat had been beached off the foot of Fifty-fifth street, Brooklyn, in a safe condition and that only one passenger, who had jumped from the deck to a tug alongside, had been injured.
Plans for bringing in the passengers were begun at once. The ships were only slightly damaged.

BILL MURRAY DENOUNCES DEMOCRATS

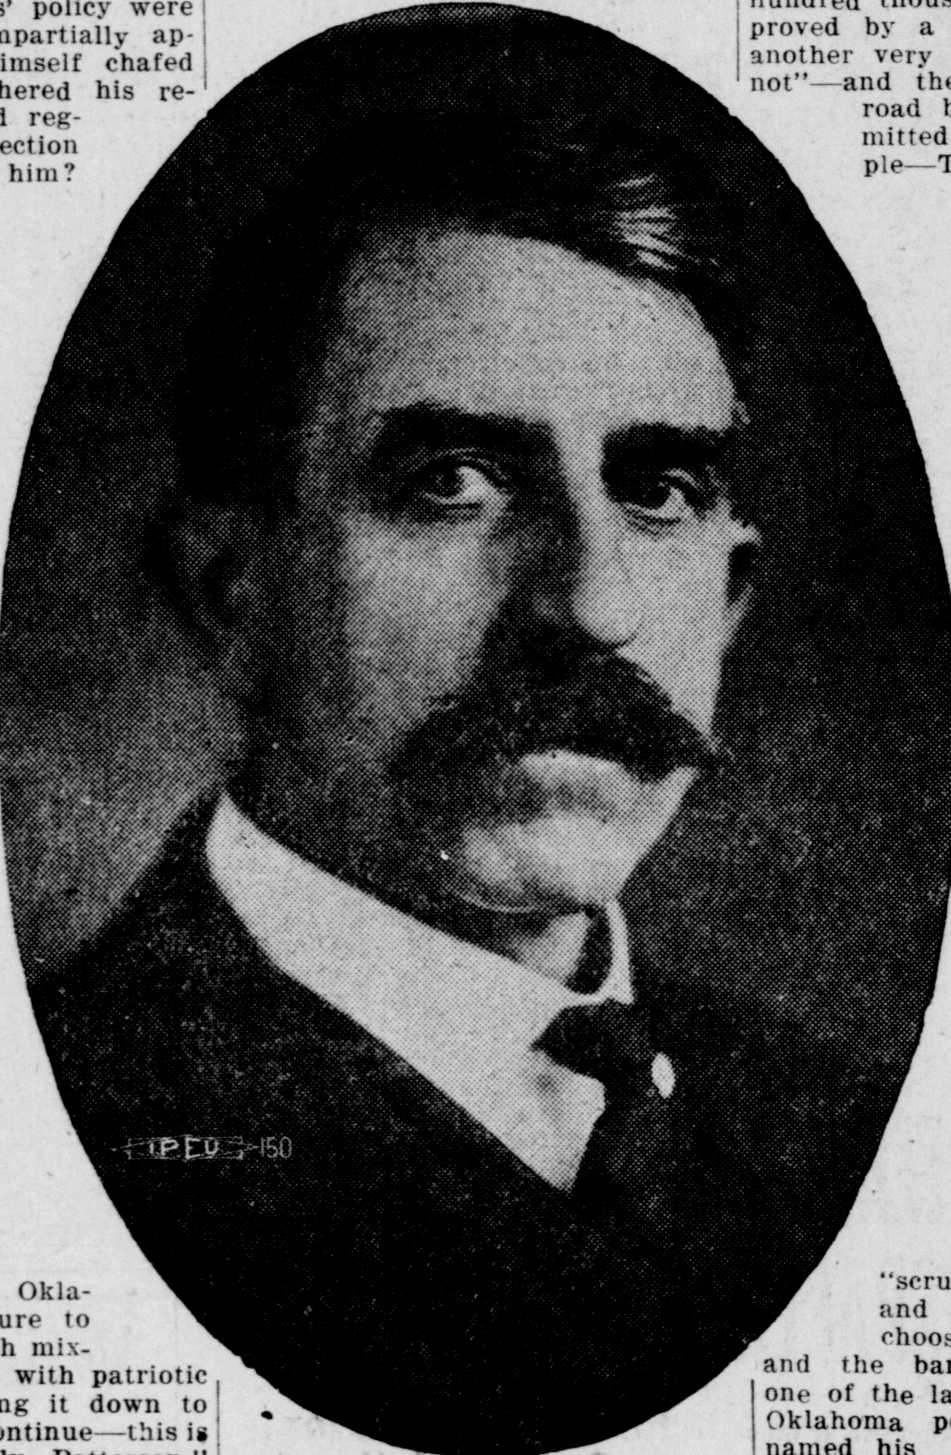

Tells Oklahoma Democracy Why State Was Lost to Republicans

To the Democrats of Oklahoma:
In 1888 (then nineteen years old) I was elected by the democratic convention of the town of Buffalo at the county convention of Leon county, Texas, and since that date I have been a member of every state convention (in which I lived) and since statehood, of every national convention of the democratic party from Oklahoma, down to and including the year 1914. Since said last date I have attended no convention but have steadfastly kept a promise made to myself more than two years ago, never again to give public utterance by speech or printed interview, of my views on political or governmental questions, until such time as it would appear that such utterances, made without consulting any higher authority than God and conscience, should receive such consideration as to make it worth the trouble of uttering them. Therefore, having had no part in making the party platform, framing its issues, or nominating its candidates I am in no sense responsible for its late disastrous defeat—a defeat I foresaw and privately expressed before the close of Claude Weaver's campaign of more than a year ago. The Chief Pilot had steered straight to the reefs and rocks, and no man was permitted to raise the danger signal—all was as clear to me as was the coming of the world war, the failure of our cotton market; and our danger of entering it, being unprepared, which I expressed in advance at the cost of my seat in congress. With our ship stranded, surely I may now with some hope of intelligent consideration, raise the danger signal of the storm yet raging across the further course of our ship. Hence, without desire, intention or purpose—I want you to know—ever again to become active in Oklahoma politics, I crave you, indulge me in the expressions contained in the sequel. They may make some good men angry—if so well and good—for some men refuse to think until they are kicked down (they got that November 2) while others must be made angry, therefore, if I can supply that, perhaps between the two the democratic party in Oklahoma will take charge of itself and place its control in the hands of men who may be measured around the heart and head—the only standard measure of men. Fourteen years ago the writer, with C. N. Haskell, and the many honest, able men in and out of the constitutional convention “scrapped” the machinery of both parties in both Territories, with the making of the militant state democracy. We emerged from that convention, under hostile criticism of the press, having everybody including the negroes voting, won by a decisive majority of more than 33,000 votes, against the odds in favor of the republicans of their having in the White House the most brilliant leader in fifty years of American public life—the late Theodore Roosevelt. We won only because we deserved to win.
I contributed much in money and brain and sinew to place the democratic donkey on the winning track in Oklahoma and this gives me the right now to give him a few lashes of the whip for his erring scampers.
What Caused Defeat?
A correct answer to that question will enable us to determine probabilities of future success—an erroneous answer would lead us to an erroneous cause and to defeat. It did not just naturally happen. There was a cause and let us not deceive ourselves as to that cause, for the biggest fool of all is the man who fools himself.

It is fundamental that a party must partake of the character of its leaders—in wisdom, integrity, patriotism, respect for opinions of others—in the one man boss or collective wisdom—in toleration or rotten-egging—in everything. Our defeat came of fundamental causes, and the remedy is fundamental. Grasp it and you return to power; ignore it and a greater defeat awaits you in Oklahoma.
The fundamental cause was not the senatorial race. The methods of that campaign—the false charges the suppression of news and actual happenings and substitution thereof of fabricated “dope” by the same unsigned dodger and political “dopester,” so-called manager—was but a continuation of methods of the campaign of 1910 brought “down to date” by the same active makers of such “methods,” with little change in personnel. No one had any personal objection to Ferris. The complaint, as best I could grasp it as a silent, studious witness to the causes of popular upheaval, consisted of this: “Ferris is a self-confessed rubberstamp congressman. If he had been any more than that he would not have permitted his campaign to be based upon the charges that the Gore men were “slackers,” “I. W. W.’s” and “Sons-of-” (which need not here be inserted) and other unladylike camouflages, and they expressed fear he would become a “rubber-stamp” to the state machine.
The defeat of the national and congressional ticket, here as elsewhere, was caused by making the sole and paramount issue of the academic dogma which could not be understood by any man, unlearned in international law and diplomacy and in the history of the human race in all ages—the rise and fall of nations, ancient, medieval and modern—it involved more than the mere words of the text of the covenant, but which all admitted meant national changes and new forms of international relations. The voter simply counseled his American traditions, running through his blood for more than a century and formed a judgement by instinct against it, as the sum of his decision and in my opinion he never acted wiser. In the congressional record (permit the digression) of date March 25, 1916, will be found the remarks of the writer, the first therein against the league of nations, the substance of a lifetime of study and two full years of special research of the congressional library. It brought quick response from ex-President Taft through personal letters, but colleagues complacently permitted the democratic ship to sail onto the rocks.
The second cause of defeat was the doctrine of rubber-stamp service in congress—just another form of the ancient parliamentary battles of England, when our ancestors inveighed against autocratic power and their voices were stifled by the royal cry: “The king can do no wrong”—and they came to the free willingness of America. Democrats will not embrace that doctrine under any name whatsoever.
A third potent cause was the “popular unrest” caused by high tax which generally could not be aided, but more particularly by the errors of the provisions of the excess profits tax, which was a burden and ought to have been different; and (2) that unrest increased through the tendencies of the application of the law which tended to reverse the purposes of American government to European standard where the citizen is nothing; the government everything—there people are made for the government; in America the government was originally made for the benefit of the people. This, in my opinion, was the most potent cause of the popular unrest. Then there was the exacting demands of the world war which all good citizens must uphold and defend, but candor compels the observation that these demands, in Oklahoma under Governor Williams’ policy were not uniformly and impartially applied. The soldier himself chafed under this, but smothered his resentment till he could register his protest on election day, and who blames him? He hit the state ticket and all.

War—all wars—brings to notice two objectionable classes—the one who makes direct resistance to service, called “slacker”;—the other is the man who runs up a flag, crawls under it, prates about patriotism and rattles about his modest, unassuming but patriotic neighbors, and accuses every person he dares, many wrongfully, of being “slackers” and disloyal. This he does to avoid having the searching public gaze turned upon himself and discover his own base conduct. This class often are not content with escaping his part of service, but often seeks to make profits out of the blood of his fellow men and his war torn country, and actually gets away with it—at least they did it in Oklahoma—Williams’ failure to see them, coupled with mixing his political plays with patriotic war-work, and handing it down to his crown prince to continue—this is he “who struck Billy Patterson.” Sum up this and tell me how these two objectionable elements lined up on senator in the primary. I was in Columbia on the west border of Brazil on Oklahoma primary day and no one there knew of it and therefore I do not know what was said or done in the senatorial race. Had a present member of congress run in Oklahoma City district for congress he would have been defeated just as was Weaver. It was the individuality, the sturdy independence, and apparent desire to “keep the faith” of Judge Swank that took him out of the class of “rubber-stamp” and gave him success.
The landslide extended to the state and legislative ticket because of the reasons stated in the foregoing, in part, but more particularly on account of the movements of the machine at Oklahoma City—its apparent anxiety to nominate, as well as to elect, Ferris; the whispered rumor that excavations were going on around the state house preparatory to taking it off in a flight, connected with the circumstances hereafter recited, the people, it is clear, deemed it wise to add more weight to the state house in order to hold it down by electing a republican house of the state legislature.

We have watched the democratic party in the state survive one fraud after another, when it deserved to go to defeat, till November, 1920, its former majority was overturned and a plurality of upwards of 25,000 registered against it with a third, the socialist party, equally of votes. For additional reasons—
“Thou Shalt Not,” of the Oklahoma constitution.” Said he: “It is antiquated; it should be repealed.” To be sure he was and the people owe the constitutional convention everlasting thanks for them. “Thou shalt not spend the states money except pursuant to an appropriation by the legislature,” is in effect one. “No officer’s salary shall be increased or diminished during his term” is another, but he beat that with a special court to try that case; however, the people beat the judges who accepted it. “No debt against the state shall be contracted or bonds issued in excess of four hundred thousand dollars unless approved by a vote of the people,” another very effective “Thou shalt not”—and the fifty million dollar road bonds had to be submitted to a vote of the people—Thanks again to the constitutional convention. We need to nominate for governor next time an honest, wise and brave man—too honest to be bought—too wise to be deceived; too brave to be intimidated—who needs not a lion’s skin dress, but whose measure fits the constitution.
Here I suggest Milas Lasater—who is Lasater? He was the best English scholar in the constitutional convention—ask any member—a successful farmer and stock raiser, a good banker, and insurance expert, and now manager of the federal loan bank at Wichita. Ask any old citizen of Pauls Valley where he lived for thirty years. I suggested in a published letter, his name in the campaign of 1914 when you had in the primary the “scrub race for governor,” and were compelled to choose between a bandit, and the banditti, and you drew one of the latter who perfected the Oklahoma political machine (and named his successor) just now stranded on the republican rocks. This same banditti had many caucuses during the first legislature seeking to unseat me as speaker, but I was too strong for them. Invariably, on a count of noses, they failed to get through to start a “rucus” since fully half the republican members remained with me. Later they marred the success of the good intentions of Governor Cruce. Finding him refusing to yield they secretly schemed to prefer impeachment against him just to intimidate, but their “game was blocked” when my friends (composing fully half the lower house) made it clear that they stood back of Cruce in the contest. Then the “banditti” had to wait the future, but took spite on John Doolin and Will Kerr the two honest men close to Cruce. This is a bit of secret history of which there is much unknown to the public. Its recital is not pleasant, for it recalls bitter memories which I have personally forgiven, but can never forget. I recite it because I am now hewing to a line on a mighty knotty log and I want to cut away all the knots. For it will make clear that no man, however able and honest, can make a great governor, surrounded by crooks, demagogues and little fellows or good fellows with heads full of red meat—such “cattle” invariably rise in government under machine rule. The democratic machine in Kentucky brought them forth and the people had to elect a republican state administration to rid the state of it. The same was true of Missouri. With us there have been a continuous and unbroken line of degeneration. They have already canvassed the names of no less than six of their number now in office in Oklahoma City in an effort to get democrats “started” toward one of them; then the machine will put him over. I pledge you my honor that if you take either of them you will draw a logical link in the endless chain of progressive degeneration from Haskell to date. True enough there are some good men and efficient for the offices they now hold and they are not candidates for governor, but the machine wants to retire them. Such as Frank Carter and Parkinson. Then there is old Tom Doyle, of the criminal court, by far the ablest and best jurist of either court. These men are not in the machine’s plan—and there are others, Cam Russell you know.

There are plenty of able men and honest in the state for all these offices, but the democracy will have to call them. With the machine in control, padding the ballot boxes as they did to defeat one candidate in 1916 and counting out others as they did in 1918—one of their prospective candidates for governor was counted in as the nominee and now holds his present office by that theft you will have to call them. The banditti will not yield of the saddle. Of course they are not to go now! J. W. Pawrakeholr too well advised not to go now through some form of re-organization, but it will be to put their high privates in the saddle—none of this harmony “stuff” will go—let’s kiss and make up” won’t save the democratic ticket two years hence. We have neither time nor money to waste on them. The party must “bring forth mete for repentance.” I would like to devote some time and means in an effort to nominate and elect a ticket of strong men like Milas Lasater, Judge Rosser, Chas. Pittman, Henry S. Johnston, Geo. Bowman, Sam Massengale, J. B. Moore, J. C. Thompson, Carl Monk, Senator McIntosh, Jesse Hatchett, C. H. Hyde, and many others.
The Plan.
To get such men requires a meeting from the “grass roots”—a state convention from all the counties with representatives from all classes of our citizens—farmers, laborers, business and professional men—called in each county as a voluntary convention. Send such delegates to a state convention; there adopt a platform of living practical policies that will meet the conditions of men in their daily avocations—cut out all day dreams, pipe dreams of mental star gazers. Put in nothing unless you mean it—mean what you say and make clear what you mean. Let the motto and determined purpose of the campaign be: EFFICIENCY AND STERN INTEGRITY.
Make as a part of the program correction of our primary and election machinery. Add there to in clear and explicit terms a provision of the law that will protect our wives and mothers at the ballot box from taunts and possible insults of thugs and blackguards for wherever the machine’s interest is at stake or a corrupt element is trying to elect a sheriff or other officer of law enforcement and they will send out such debased debauchees to disgust the moral womanhood of the land. The success now of our government depends upon the wives and mothers of the land—they must all vote. Therein lies our only safety.

Provide a more effective system of farm credits, especially for the farmer trying to buy a home.
Such a ticket will win for the people of Oklahoma want to be democrats. Then the party can stay in power if it deserves to win, but—
No more mental and moral dwarfs must be nominated.
Nor more padding of ballot boxes.
Nor more count outs.
No more attempts of the government to name his successor.
No more rubber-stamp doctrine of public service.
No more sending state employee’s at state’s expense for candidacy in the primaries.
No more bought pardons.
No more juggling of court decisions for the purpose of securing lucrative attorneyships with large oil corporations.
No more sale of future public officials in blocks of lives to procure campaign expenses.
Nor more partisanship written into the laws—there is a proper place for partisanship, but it is not in the laws governing everybody.
No more “black-jacking” the banks to coerce their contributing to the machine’s expense.
No more pronouncements from the state treasurer to force a vote favorable to the machine’s will, as was done on the “fifty million dollar road bond issue” when threat was made that where any town or county voted against the bonds all the state funds would be withdrawn from such city or county—and the threat carried out.
No more propositions on the part of a state official “to take $1,000 stock” in a proposed bank and secure the issue of a bank charter.
No more “lobby poker games”—a gambling club organized in some hotel room by three or four members of some legislative body and when one of their number is approached by a lobbyist on a bill, said lobbyist receives the response: “Come down to our private poker game and we’ll talk it over.” Said lobbyist takes the hint, “joins in for just one little game,” makes the stakes large enough to suit the legislator, purposely loses, walks away, and the legislators who win the bet vote for the lobbyist’s bill. There was one of these in the lone hotel during the first legislature organized by four state senators and one editor. There has been one of these for the past six years in a certain hotel in Oklahoma City operated and owned by a lobbyist who has corrupted more southern legislators in the past twenty years than all others, except he has three rooms; a bed room, a liquor store room, and a poker room. I told him in 1918 that if I were elected governor I’d make him leave the

OKLAHOMA'S CORN CROP IS BEST IN THIRTEEN YEAR

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8.—Only three years in the last two decades have exceeded this year's corn yield, according to the month's report on crop condition and estimate issued today by the board of crop estimate of the state department of agriculture.

These years were 1904, 1906 and 1907. The acreage planted in corn this year in the state, the report said, is only slightly greater than 1900.

In that year the acreage was 2,900,000 bushels, in creasing year until 1909 when it reached 5,900,000.

Since then each year has witnessed a decline until the total is about what it was twenty years ago. The reason assigned by the report is that Oklahoma farmers are learning which sections are better adapted to corn and which are better for hark, milo and other grain sorghums.

The yield of white potatoes compared very well with that of last year, and but for lack of sufficient moisture at the time of ripening would undoubtedly have been as good as 1902 when a record average of ninety-two bushels to the acre was recorded says the crop statement.

Cotton suffered damage during the latter part of October from the almost continuous rains, the report continues bottom lands in many instances being flooded and the crop greatly injured.

DECREASE IN CHURCH WORKERS, SAYS REPORT

CHICAGO.—There is a decrease of nineteen deaconesses, forty-four probationers, and 104 associated workers in the Methodist Episcopal church, according to a statement issued by Dr. Daniel W. Howell, corresponding secretary of the general deaconess board of the Methodist Episcopal church. This decrease was partially explained by the large number of young women who are going out as missionaries to foreign lands and as community workers in home missions in the states.

Dr. Howell reported to the Centenary Conservation committee in Chicago that there are eighty-one deaconess homes with property valued at $5,111,639. These deaconess homes employ 682 deaconesses, 65 probationers and 107 associated workers. There are twenty-six hospitals of which the property value is $4,522,217 and which employ ninety-seven deaconesses, eighteen probationers and 373 workers. There are nine deaconess training schools of which the property value is $694,274, and employ forty deaconesses, four probationers and twenty-one associated workers. There are five deaconess educational schools of which the property value is $380,976, and employ twenty-seven deaconesses, one probationer and thirty associated workers.

NEW CLASS "C" FORMED IN STATE BASEBALL LEAGUE

BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 12.—organization of a class C baseball league, which includes temporarily Muskogee, Bartlesville, Sapulpa and Parsons, Coffeyville and Independence, Kansas, was perfected here this week, with three franchises already in the hands of the president of the newly formed league.

The by-laws of the league specify a player limit of twelve men, exclusive of a bench manager, and a class C salary limit.

Supporters of many teams last season in the Eastokla league, a league comprised of teams from cities in the eastern part of Oklahoma were instrumental in organization of the new league.

Muskogee is bidding for a berth in the Western league, through the same process by which the South-western league may draft Fort Smith and Okmulgee into the new league.

"Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour."—1 Peter 5-8.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

No doubt you have read the published statement of Jonathan Bourne, jr., that the Republican administration intends to wage unrelenting war on Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Bourne was formerly a senator from Oregon and is now publicity director for some national organization of Republicans. He has recently issued a dire and solemn promise of what the G. O. P. intends to do to the noted labor leader.

In this same connection it may be interesting to note a letter from C. B. Leedy of Arnett, addressed to Governor Allen of Kansas and published in part in the Dallas News. Mr. Leedy is a prominent attorney of Ellis county and has just been elected to the state senate from his district. He is a Republican. In his letter he compliments the Industrial Court Law of Kansas and informs the Kansas governor that the same law will be introduced in the Oklahoma legislature by Mr. Leedy.

As an indication of the trend of the political wind the letter of the former Oregon senator and the letter of the future Oklahoma senator are significant straws. The industrial war that has been somewhat quiescent during the past few months threatens to be renewed presently, and the promised attack threatens to come from the camp of those opposed to organized labor. Just now the Republican leaders can "get" Samuel Gompers is not evident. But it is easy to see how the senator from Ellis County hopes to smite the labor organization of Oklahoma: he simply proposed to make it unlawful for labor to employ the strike weapon in industrial disputes.

Regardless of the fate of the Bourne crusade and regardless of the fate of Leedy's attack on labor, it is apparent that organized labor will not have so easy a time under a Republican administration as it has had under a Democratic administration. For seven years labor has had a friend in the White House. In fact, many believe that President Wilson has favored organized labor more than it deserved. But the signs of the time all indicate that a decided change has come in government and that labor in the future may expect no favors in high places. It is more than possible that in the near future labor disputes will be settled by Federal troops instead of boards of arbitration. The labor man who voted for Harding in order to get a change has very probably got a change that he was not seeking and will not relish.

THE CARNIVAL OF AUTUMN

Just why nature puts on her richest robes at the very time the seasons are making ready for their winding sheet is something the fable of the seasons have not revealed. But here we are at the gates of Winter and as we look about us we see on every hillside the most brilliant colors of the year. Despite the snow and frost that ride toward us from the icy caverns of the North every tree and plant and flower is donning the hectic colors of a coronation.

Just now the fields and forests of Oklahoma are rain bowed in the tints of beauty that adorn their foliage and flower. Their tallest trees are flaming with the colors of the Autumn tide. The gnarled and bending shrub is decked with beauty as stainless as an oriental dream. Even the common sumac looks out from its winding hedge, clothed with the gorgeous crimson of the sunset. The prairie grasses revel in a carnival of colors as the life of nature dwindles towards its close.

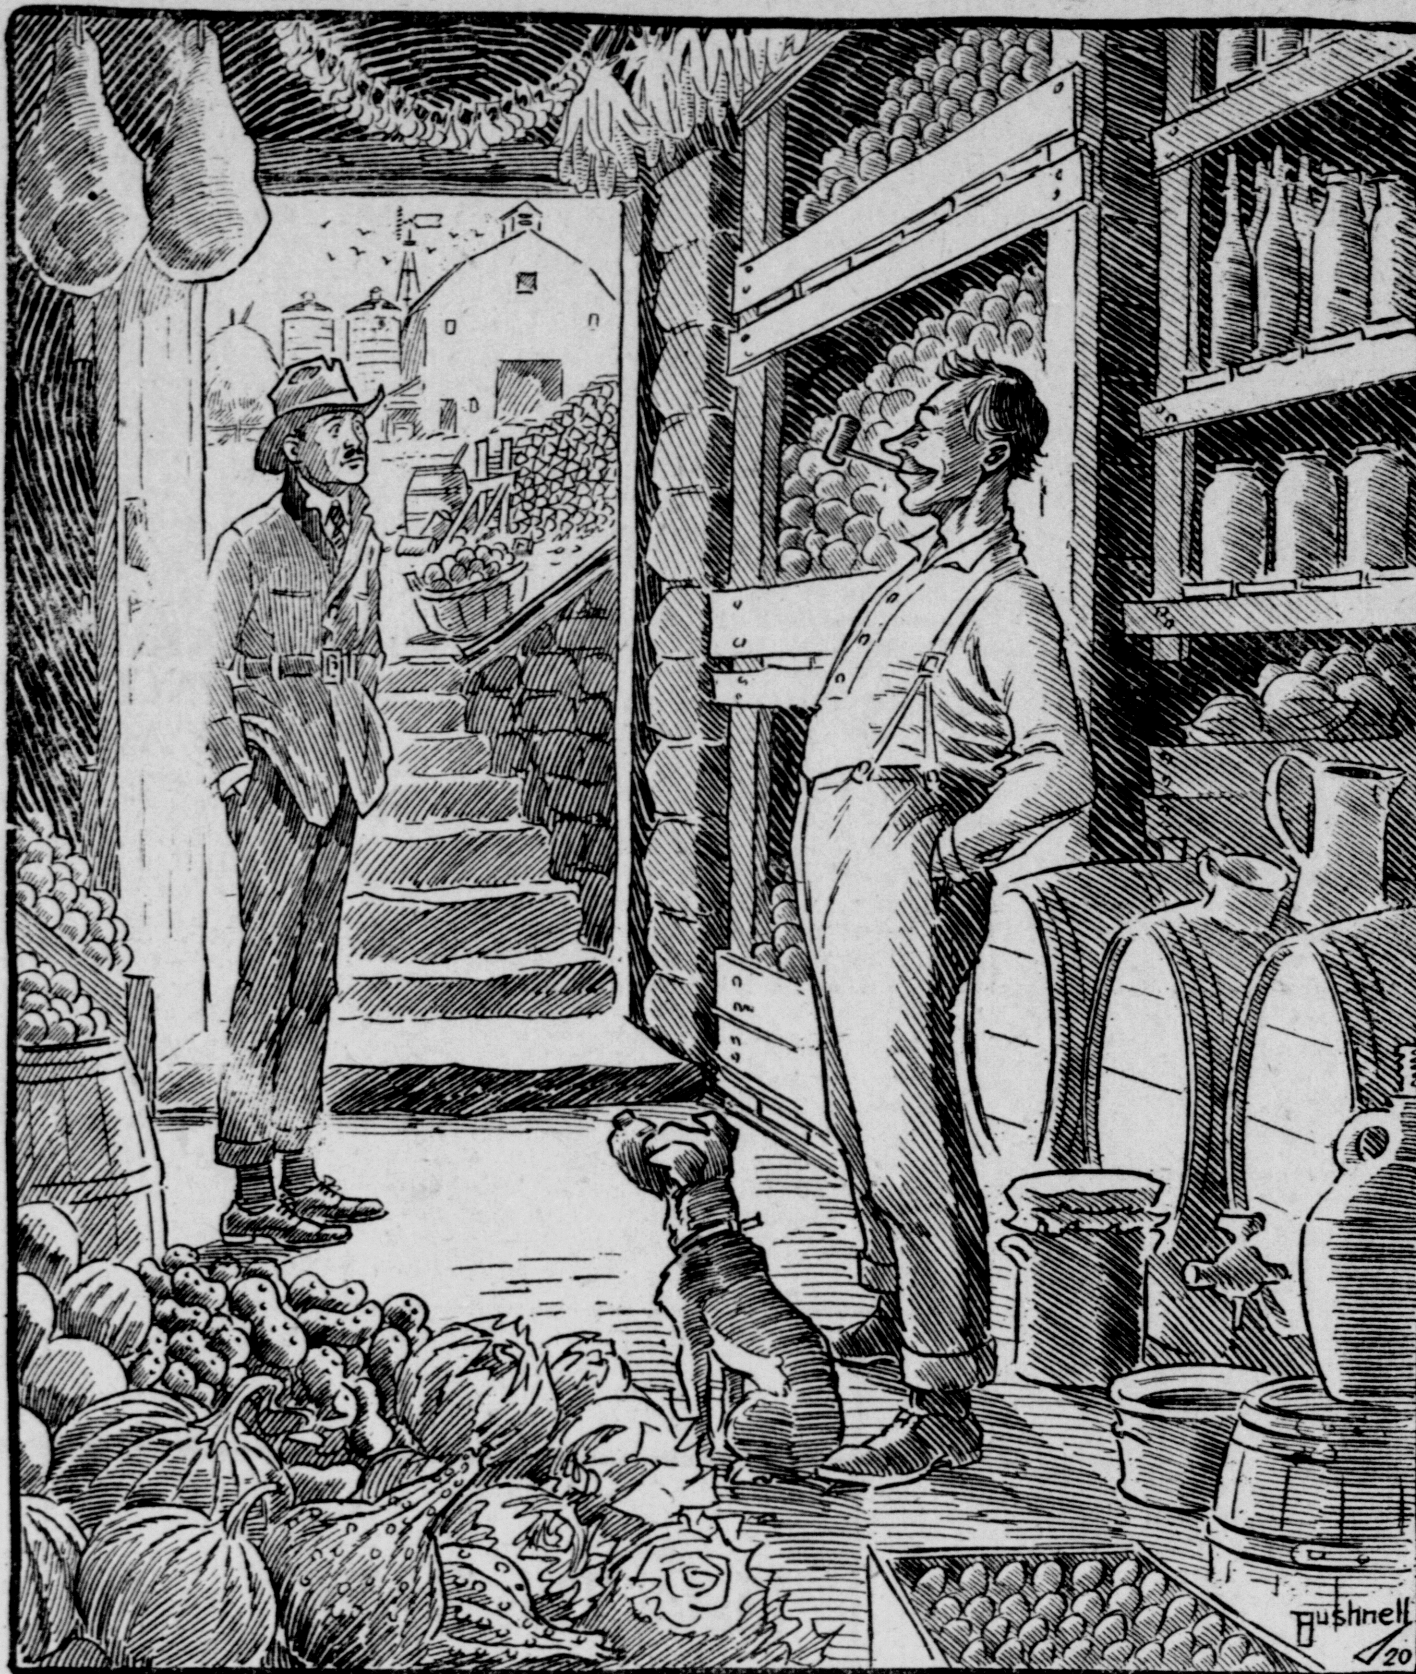

It is only for a day. Already the breath of the storm king is crossing the virgin sod of Oklahoma and soon the sheets of white will cover the shining beauties of a day. Snow and ice and sodden death will lie like the pall of eternity upon the painted leaflets of the forest. But today the mimicry of nature knows no fear and assuming, a thousand-hued robe of beauty Mother Nature marches bravely to her journey's end.

Ingersoll spent a lifetime trying to prove that there is no hell. But that was before the voters defeated men like Tom D. McKeown and Bill Hastings and elected men like Manuel Herrick and Tom Blanton.

Another thing that will hardly receive mention in the governor's message to the legislature is the pre-election telegram he sent to Governor Cox promising a democratic majority of 70,000 in Oklahoma.

One of the new representatives in the Oklahoma legislature is so badly tongue-tied that he can't teach his own kiddies how to talk. A hundred like him wouldn't hurt the state very much.

A NEW VERSION OF AESOP'S FABLE OF THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER

GERMANY NOT TO SEEK ADMISSION TO LEAGUE NOW

Will Consider Invitation of Assembly, However, That Meets Monday.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 13.—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member should it be extended by the organization, said Dr. Herman Muelled, Vice-president of the foreign affairs committee of the German Reichstag, in a statement today to Journal De Geneva.

"Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an appeal would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they would have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but however that may be such a decision would not be without danger to the league itself. Besides the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia or the United States and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence."

Would Not Decline Invitation
"That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in the event of some delegation raising the question of her admission and of the assembly should accept. Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

The assembly of the League of Nations which will hold its first meeting at Geneva on Monday next, November 15, is the popular or representative branch of the double body designed to guide the affairs of that organization as created under the treaty of Versailles.

While the representative character of the gathering will be impaired by the absence of the United States, Germany, Austria and Russia, yet with these exceptions it will come near to representing the greater part of the civilized world. The session has additional interest as marking the complete organization of the league as provided by the Versailles Peace Treaty.

Forty-two nations, ranging in importance from the British Empire to the Republic of Haiti, are expected to send delegates. Of the forty-five states mentioned in the covenant, only three will be unrepresented—the United States, Honduras, and Ecuador. Fifteen more nations have applied for admission, and the question of granting them access to the session as new members will be one of the first items of business to be considered. Among these applicants are Austria and Bulgaria of the former enemy states and a number of small nations just emerged into statehood.

The question of admitting Germany to membership will also come under discussion, as it is likely to be raised by several of the former European neutrals, and it seems likely that the admission of Mexico may also come before the session. All the states seeking membership will be required to submit to such regulations of their military naval and aerial armaments as the league may deem necessary, and the League's Permanent Advisory Commission on military, naval and air questions has been at work since August collecting the data which will be needed by the assembly for proper action on this matter.

The acting president of the assembly, M. Hymans of Belgium, will open the first meeting, as the assembly has not yet had a chance to elect a president of its own. This election will be the very first order of business, and will be followed by the election of four vice presidents and the appointment of a committee on credentials.

Enough names of delegates are known to show that the absence of monarchy will not detract from the importance of the gathering, although it may reduce its picturesque quality somewhat. Among the more noted figures may be mentioned Dr. Edouard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia and creator of "Little Entente", M. Paderevski, first prime minister of the new Poland, Hjalmar Branting, prime minister of Sweden until a few weeks ago, President Motta of Switzerland, and his predecessor, ex-president Ador, who recently acted as chairman at the International Financial Conference at Brussels. Many of the non-European states will be represented by diplomats, but it will not be the rule even in their case. Thus Argentina will send its foreign minister, Senor Pueyrredon, as one of its delegates, while Chile will be represented by Don Antonio Huneeus, former foreign minister, and Don Manuel Rivas Vicuna, deputy and former minister of finance. Each member nation is entitled to three officially accredited delegates, but they may send substitutes and experts as well. Sweden has availed itself of this privilege and one of its three substitute delegates is a woman, Mrs. Anna Bugge-Wicksell, widely known as an expert on international law.

Much of the early work of the session will be devoted to organization, the appointment of committees being one of the most troublesome items. The likelihood is that some twelve or fifteen committees will be formed, and that the various items on the agenda will be divided into relates groups and distributed among those committees.

Among the duties of the assembly will be the final and formal establishment of a number of permanent subordinate organizations like the Court of International Justice, the

NEW CONGRESS TO 'CLEAN UP'

The Greco-Roman Luxuries Built Years Ago To Be Used.

WASHINGTON. — The Greco-Roman baths of the United States senate, installed nearly eight years ago, but never put into service, are now being cleared of the cobwebs and stains of time, and will be in shape to offer their luxuries of steam, plunge, shower and electricity to the members of the new senate when it assembles.

Charges of extravagance were aimed at the baths in congressional debate when the power of administration last swung from the republican to democratic and as a result the baths, installed in the then new senate office building, were shorn of their expensive equipment, bereft of their attendants and left to gloom.

The marble slabs, Turkish rugs and steam-proof tables and chairs were turned over to the government hospitals and only the marble shells and nickle filling left in the place. Now, however, the baths are coming back, but under a new plan. Members of the senate themselves will pay a large part of the operating expenses and a special official committee has taken charge of the assessments, which will be levied against each user in proportion to the service he exacts.

The baths will be somewhat less gorgeous than the original plan, but in their luxurious completeness, will still have claim to comparison with private club installation.

Health organization, the Commission on Communications and Transit, and the special tribunal that is to deal with all disputes connected with international communications.

Incidentally certain questions will be considered concerning the relationship between the council and the assembly as well as between those bodies and the various technical organizations created by them.

Other important subjects to come before the assembly will be action on the recommendations of the recent International Financial Conference at Brussels, formulations of policy and methods for the employment of the league's weapon, the economic boycott, and preparations for concerted action looking toward the suppression of all traffic in women and children. Other questions of equal importance may be broached, as the assembly is absolute master of its own procedure and can vote leave to advance an entirely new proposition at forty-eight hours notice.

Subjects to come before the assembly at the instance of individual member nations are several proposed amendments to the covenant, some of which aim at improving the position of the smaller nations within the league, while one submitted by Holland, deals with the covenant provision for suppression of the opium traffic in the far East.

It is, of course, impossible to foretell how long the session will last,

but information received from reliable sources indicates three or four weeks.

AVIATORS MAY HAVE PERISHED IN LAKE

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.—Patrolling the west lake coast from Two Rivers, Wis., to a point below Seaboard, coast guard and fishing boats today continued their search for the seaplane of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, which has been missing since Wednesday. Nothing definite as to the fate of Lieut. Harry Barr, commander, and Ensign M. Clark and John Caesar, who were on board the craft, has been learned.

Experienced lake sailors and coast guard officials express the opinion that the men have perished. A rumor that a body had been found off Two Rivers, Wis., could not be confirmed.

Another Divorce Case

Mrs. Effie Wagstaff filed suit for divorce from her husband, Omer Wagstaff, in district court yesterday. She states in her petition that she married the defendant in Stratford, September 27, 1914, and that of the marriage two children have been born, now four and two years old respectively. She states further that defendant without any cause abandoned her in November 1919, and has since lived separate and apart from her. Wherefore she asks divorce, custody of the children, and the costs of this action. She is represented by Joe A. Edwards of Stratford.

Secretary Walker Expects To Be On Firing Line Next Week

This morning a representative of the Evening News stood at the bedside of O. N. Walker, secretary of the Ada Chamber of Commerce, and tried to point out the silver lining which is said to accompany each and every cloud. As near as could be told from a hasty survey Mr. Walker's liver appeared to be out of its orbit, or as he put it his "brain and liver refuse to cooperate in the dispensation of those health waves so necessary to man's well being."

He is still in bed but is growing better each hour under the care of a local mechanic who reports that the short circuit has been located and is now in the course of ultimate extermination.

Vinita Journal: The average politician has a cold hand for the fellow who leaves his party and a warm hand for the fellow who comes into his party. The former is a "turn coat" and a narrow minded fool, the latter is a man who thinks for himself and has a big lot of gray matter.

H. L. Bedgood and Miss Mattie Jones of Ada were united in marriage in Ada yesterday. Judge Joseph Anderson performed the wedding ceremony.

Delphians Meet.

An unusually large number of members were present at the meeting of the Delphians last Tuesday. In the absence of Mrs. Barton, the appointed leader for the afternoon, the president, Mrs. Ed Granger, by request took charge of the lesson, which was an interesting and instructive study of the contemporaries of Shakespeare and the suppression of the stage.

Worthy of special mention on the program was a well delivered discourse on Beaumont and Fletcher by Mrs. Webster. Among other things, she spoke of their beautiful friendship for one another, and the sharing of literary things as well as literary labors.

Other members on the program handled their subjects in a manner that showed much study and thought. Our president is very much pleased with the work being done by each member. Unlike many other study clubs, all written papers are taboos and each member is required to speak independently, or merely from notes.

"One object of the Delphian movement is to stimulate active, creative thought and its best and freest expression, and to break the fetters of written manuscript," the president said.

Mrs. Bayless will have charge of the next program.

Washington, Nov. 11.—State railroad and utilities commissioners in their annual convention here today adopted a resolution asking the interstate commerce commission for a conference to define the relative authority of the state commissioner and federal commissioner under the transportation act.

PLUM PUDDING TIME NOW HERE

All Thanksgiving Delicacies Offered by Local Stores Here.

Plum pudding time of the year is at hand—plum pudding and mince pies, and fruit cake and all other old fashioned "goodies" that go hand in hand with Thanksgiving and Christmas, say Ada grocers. If you're about to forget, the grocery man will remind you to lay in your supply before the "rush" begins. Candied cherries, candied pineapple, shelled nuts, dates, currants and raisins have appeared on the shelves of grocery stores during the last week. Grocers seem to have been able to lay in plentiful supplies of vegetables, cranberries to be had for 18 cents a quart, fresh carrots, lettuce, beets, cauliflower, turnips, peppers, green beans and lettuce. Tomatoes are hardly too to be obtained at all.

The fancy groceries have not advanced in price since last year, nor have they dropped. They are about the same, the grocers explaining that sugar being higher now than it was this time last year, confections of all kinds have not dropped. This applies to candies, fancy cakes, and practically everything that is made largely of sugar.

Women are buying few pumpkins, the majority of women preferring the canned variety, already prepared for pies. The average woman these days doesn't make her own mince-meat or plum pudding, either. She buys it in a can, grocers say. Fruits are still high, and even apples are not decreasing in price as the season advances. Grapefruit are about the one exception, as fairly good sized ones can now be purchased for 10 cents each.

It would look as though the fruit salad will be the most expensive dish on the Thanksgiving table. Ada butchers do not look for cheaper turkey this year. The price will be 45 to 50 cents a pound, just as it was last.

TURKEY GOBBLERS ARE LIVING HIGH—BUT JUST WAIT!

All over this fair land just now two million turkeys are fattening unconscious of their doom. Two-thirds grown the flocks of Virginia and Kentucky and Texas, that turkey land supreme, are gorging themselves ignorant of the fate that will make them a nation's meal on Thursday, Nov. 25. The turkey is trotting to his November end.

It is just as well that his majesty, like humans, knows so little of the fate of his end. If he did he'd worry a lot. A sad looking bird at best is the turkey. There's no need of adding weight to that face down-cast and drawn out. As it is he gobbles his lay and the grasshoppers that are so fattening at one gobbles, hides away in the meadows in the daytime, and goes to roost in the moonshine on the branches of the good old friendly trees at dusk, perfectly happy and peaceful contented with his lot.

Advance notice is to the effect that the turkey, both bronze and blue, will be fairly reasonable in price this Thanksgiving. Progress of the flocks indicate that.

MURDERER MUST DIE FOR CRIME

Electric Chair for Muskogee Man Who Killed His Stepdaughter.

MUSKOGEE.—Robert W. Blakeley, confessed slayer of his 13-year-old stepdaughter, was sentenced to die in the electric chair after less than 15 minutes deliberation by a jury in the district court here Wednesday. Blakeley was charged with murder.

The death sentence, itself failed to cause the prisoner to show the least sign of emotion. Only once during the trial, when his 12-year-old daughter, Goldie, on the witness stand, spoke the words that clinched the death for her "daddy" did Blakeley break down. Tears came to his eyes, as the little girl, the only eye witness to the killing, recited the story of the struggle between her father and her half-sister.

A plea for the mercy of the court was the only defense made by Blakeley's attorney. Blakeley is the first white man ever to be sentenced to the electric chair from Muskogee county.

The prisoner was charged with the shooting of his step-daughter at Brushy Mountain, near here, several weeks ago. The shooting was said to be the outcome of a jealousy of the step-father for the girl, when she is said to have received the attentions of another man.

The Greatest Age
In World's History

This is no time for the person who believes only that which he understands. Neither is it a favorable time for the person who doubts the ability of the human mind to look behind the curtain of time down the ages and there see the handwriting of nature. Nature is yielding up her secrets to all who wish to see. She no longer uses the lightning in the clouds to scare ignorant superstitious humanity. That force has now been harnessed. It pulls trains, cooks our meals, drives our wheels of industry and carries the whisper of our voices around the earth in the fractional part of a second. Electricity is exactly the same force now that it was three hundred years ago, yet we knew nothing about it then except that we believed it was only destructive. We did not know that it would one day serve as man's greatest servant, obedient to carry out his commands. We did not understand electricity, therefore we made no attempt to master it until recent years. We know comparatively nothing about electricity now, but we have commenced to experiment with it, and that is a step toward discovery of what it is and what it will do, when we learn more about it. Electricity now carries the human voice around the earth. One day it will carry the human body to any given point with speed heretofore undreamed of. Our methods of harnessing electricity is now very crude. We shall learn how to manipulate, regulate and control this universal energy through a process as simple as that through which we now draw water out of a spicket, through the aid of gravity.

How can we discover the possibilities of electricity? How can we tap the great reservoirs of energy and use it at will?

We can do this only through experimentation—through the use of imagination. This is decidedly the age of imagination, inquiry and experiment. The human race has begun to throw off the shackles of fear and doubt and take hold of the tools of progress which have been lying at our feet throughout the ages. The present is the most wonderful age in the period of history of the human race—wonderful not only in its mechanical development, but also in its mental development. We have discovered, not only how to fly in the air, swim under the ocean and talk around the earth, but we have discovered the cause of all this achievement—the human mind. The last fifty years has been the most active in the world's history as far as discovery through science is concerned. The next fifty years probably will take us far into the development of the human mind as the fifty years have taken us into the mastery of physics and mere mechanical devices.

The present ruling family of Japan came to the throne in 660 B.C.

News' Bible Lesson.

Proverbs 16:16-22.
How much better is it to get wisdom than gold and to get understanding rather than to be chosen than silver.
And the highway of the upright is to depart from evil; he that keepeth his way preserveth his soul.
And pride goeth before destruction, and haughty spirit before a fall.
Better it is to be of an humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide the spoil with the proud.
He that handeth a matter wisely shall find good; and whose trusteth in the Lord happy is he.
The wise in heart shall be called prudent; and the sweetness of the lips increaseth learning.
Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it; but the instruction of fools is folly.

Local Farmers Are Urged To Join Co-operative Body

"The farmer gets skinned once a year and that occurs in the fall, when he goes to market his crops." The above statement was made yesterday afternoon by W. T. Arterberry in a speech to a large crowd of farmers at a public gathering on Main street. Arterberry is an organizer for the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of America, an organization which has had a phenomenal growth in the United States during the past year.

It was explained by Mr. Arterberry that it was the intention of the organization to create an agency, or medium, through which the farmers of Oklahoma and of the other states of the United States may be represented in all matters affecting them as farmers.

It is admitted by every one that if the farmers had some kind of an organization through which they might act as a unit, that if they were organized and were in position to have representatives of their organization, keenly alive to their needs and devoted to their best interests, at all of the state capitals and at Washington during sessions of the law-making bodies that a great deal of good would result to the farmer.

It is also an admitted fact that if the farmers were organized as are the railroad men, the miners and various other classes of working men who practically dictate what their income shall be they would not now be selling their products for less money than it took to make them.

Mr. Arterberry reminded his audience of these things and insisted that the organization of which he is the representative will be of great benefit to the farmers of Pontotoc county and cited many instances of cases in which that organization had been the means of securing better prices for farm products than could have been obtained without its help.

One of the ends his organization is said to have in view is the establishment of a cotton warehouse at the principal cotton centers where cotton farmers may store their cotton and not be forced to sell it when the market is low. These warehouses will be in charge of a person who will be authorized to advance the farmer a part of its value and attend to the shipping and sale of it for a nominal fee. It was claimed that the application of this plan at various places in the state of Oklahoma had resulted in the elimination of the local buyer and the securing of a better classification and a better price for cotton than was obtained at other places where there was no such organization, and cited figures purporting to prove that a month ago when the price of cotton at Ada was about 20 cents a pound the farmers at Idabel and many other places in the state where organizations had been established were getting 29 cents a pound for the same class of cotton.

Arterberry is organizing the farmers of Pontotoc county into local bodies, which will co-operate with a central organization which is to be organized at Ada. A meeting was held at New Bethel school-house last night and he is to be in Ada again today to talk to the farmers here more about the proposition and undertake the organization of the central body.

Hard-working men are more liable to kidney, liver and bowel disorders than others, therefore Prickly Ash Bitters is the worker's friend, because it keeps a man's vital organs in sound vigorous condition. Price $1.50 per bottle. Sold by Gwin & Mays Drug Co. (adv)

William H. Murray Denounces Democrats

state; but the people danced to the music—

"Where the merry bells ring round, and the jocund fiddles sound."

No more suppression of a free fair, and full discussion of public questions by democrats in the councils of the party and before the people—no place for rotten eggs—the democratic party was given upon its organized effort to maintain freedom of the press and of speech and of political, civil, and religious liberty—with the suppression of these, or one of them, there is no democracy—upon this Rock Jefferson built his party of Militant Americanism, and with adherence to these principles the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Abandon them and the party will perish.

And bear ever in mind that a knowledge of what is right and honest purpose to do it is the greatest leader of men, capable of self-government.

No one need tell me this is an undiplomatic letter. I know it; but I am no more running for office and therefore the profanity of the banditti will hurt no one. Indeed, I know better than the public that I have, in this letter, turned the battery on more wires than ever before received the current at one time. What I have said needed saying—here is the way out—pursue it or let it alone. The choice is yours.

With highest respects,
Sincerely,
WM. H. MURRAY.

UNUSUAL CONDITION

Texas Lady Suffered With Pulling and Aching Pains in Her Back, Which Cardui Relieved.

Houston, Texas.—Mrs. C. D. Cook, of 1912 Whitty Street, this city, recently said: "About four months after my marriage, I began suffering much pain, and knew that my condition was unusual, but couldn't just decide what was wrong. I had to go to bed. . . .

"All across my back and hips were pains, pulling and aching until I could hardly sit up. I stayed in bed a few days. My husband had heard of Cardui . . . so I told him he might get it.

"After I had taken Cardui a few days, I was up. I took five bottles and haven't been in bed since for this trouble, for if I have the least symptoms of this trouble I get Cardui and take it in time.

"I have a number of friends who have used Cardui, and they recommend it very highly."

The experience of this Texas lady is similar to that related by thousands of other women.

Cardui is purely vegetable, and mild and gentle in its action. Cardui may be the very medicine you need if suffering with womanly troubles.

Take Cardui.

WAR HERO HERE FOR MAYFLOWER TERCENTENARY

Gen. Robert E. Neville, photographed on arrival.

Small Boys Freed of Charge of Disturbing the Peace

Something like a half dozen small boys and children from the Lightning Ridge community went to trial yesterday in Judge Brown's court on a charge of disturbing the peace. The complaining witness was Mrs. M. L. Agee of Lightning Ridge. The charge against the lads was that they had used language calculated to disturb the peace of the state witness. Other witnesses appearing for the defendants testified that Mrs. Agee had armed herself with a shotgun and talked in a very emphatic manner to the boys, who laughed at her pains. A jury trial was had and the defendants found not guilty. Robert Wimbish represented the boys.

HUGO RIVALS RENO IN DIVORCE SUITS

HUGO, Nov. 10.—Reno may have to relinquish its claim as the "Divorce City" to Hugo if the record keeps up. Fifty suits for divorce were on docket at the special session of district court.

Lawyers in Hugo have been kept busy during the last week and the court clerk has been kept busy filing cases.

Reno won its fame as a divorce city because a judge went through a docket of thirty-two cases in one day. With fifty before him, Judge Barrett has more than a fifty fifty chance to break into fame and cause Reno to be classed as a back number in turning out divorces.

Church News

First Christian Church
(Second Block, South Broadway)

Everyone is always cordially welcome at the First Christian church. First, he is welcome to the Sunday school. This institution is doing good work. Some new classes have been formed recently. We are always glad to have new scholars. "A class a smile and a welcome to all. Come and see."

In the second place he is welcome to the morning worship. This worship begins at 11 o'clock and lasts about an hour and fifteen minutes. The Lord's Supper is observed according to the teaching of the New Testament, great hymns are sung, prayer is offered, people give to the Lord's work, and the word is preached. The minister's theme Sunday morning will be "According to the Pattern." This sermon will be preached in view of the coming revival, and every member of the church ought to be present.

In the third place he is welcome to the evening worship. This begins at 7:30. This is usually an evangelistic service. The subject of the sermon will be "Christianity, Ada and Hell." This theme will be handled without gloves. A big audience is expected and everyone is welcome.

The juniors will meet in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 6:30. The topic is "Winning Friends to Christ." The minister will lead the meeting. This is a great theme. It is hoped that every endeavor membership will be out to this meeting.

—C. V. Dunn, Minister

Fifth District Convention

The Fifth District Convention of Churches of Christ will be held in the Christian Church Tuesday and Wednesday. The first session will be held on Tuesday morning, beginning at 9:30. There will be three sessions each day. The members of the church cannot afford to miss these meetings. Friends are always welcome to these sessions. Good talent has been secured for the addresses, and as many people as possible should take advantage of the opportunity that came right to their doors.

HENRY KENDALL IS TO BECOME THE TULSA UNIVERSITY

By the News' Special Service.

TULSA, Nov. 13.—"A larger Kendall," has for sometime been the slogan of the backers of the Henry Kendall college, and this is now taking concrete form in a plan to enlarge the institution into a full-fledged university in order to meet the demands of the rapidly increasing number of students for courses not included in the ordinary college curriculum. The plan contemplates adding several more departments such as are demanded by students, present and prospective. If the plan is carried out the enlarged institution will probably be known as the University of Tulsa of which Henry Kendall college will be the literary department, still retaining its name. This matter of expanding into a university and offering full university courses will be decided at a full meeting of the board of trustees which will be held November 23.

Plans are fast maturing for the launching of a vigorous campaign with the object of raising at least $2,000,000 in addition to what the college already has, a sum that is needed to place the school on a basis that will render its position in the educational field secure for all time to come.

The assets of the college have gradually grown through the passing years until they now total three quarters of a million dollars. The enrollment has increased until it bids fair to approach the five hundred mark before the end of the present year. Three additional buildings, two dormitories and a science building are urgently needed and if the plans for a university are put into execution, several more will be needed in a short time.

DOCTOR IS INJURED IN GAS EXPLOSION AT ENID

ENID, Nov. 13.—Dr. Roy Stone of Covington was badly injured in a gas explosion in his office early Thursday morning. He was rushed to a hospital at Enid.

Returning from a late night call, Dr. Stone went to his office about 2 o'clock Thursday morning and turned on his electric light. The explosion is believed to have followed immediately. It is believed that leaking gas from the stove had filled the small room and a double socket in the light wiring may have flashed the same.

The physician's condition is considered serious. The office is a complete wreck.

"L. of J." Meeting

The Junior "L. of J." boys will meet in regular meeting on Monday at the Christian Church at 5 o'clock. All the boys are invited to be out.

GO TO THEATRE

"Oh Daddy" Well Liked

(From Dubuque, Iowa Telegraph)

In describing a musical comedy, it is generally customary to start out by saying something nice about the show itself, then add praise for the principles, follow up with a few remarks relating to the chorus and close with a mention of "gorgeous scenery and dazzling costumes."

But not so with "Oh Daddy," a two-act musical comedy which was presented at the Majestic theatre Friday and Saturday. First mention in the program instance is of the chorus, no because the chorus girls are any different than the ordinary run of chorus girls, but partly for the snappy, well-trained way in which they work and principally for the costumes they wear. The stereotyped term, "Daddy chorus like a kid glove and if there wasn't another redeeming feature in the show the freakish, even outlandish, but nevertheless beautiful costumes, together with neat stage settings, serve to make "Oh Daddy" well worth the price of admission.

But there are other redeeming features, chief among them the singing of Belva June French, a very much blonde prima donna, who warbles like a bird and has a preference for ballads, although her jazz numbers are faultless and put over in the proper manner. Then there are three Earles in the show—Peggy and Kathryn, who are clever dancers, and Billy, who essays a juvenile role, that of Lieutenant Grap, U. S. A.

Most if not all of the comedy, is furnished by two veteran humorists, William M. Cooton, as a peppy old doctor who just loves the ladies, and Martin Bowers, as an eccentric all-around servant and handy man. More comedy is injected by Jean Darrow, whose greatest handicap is her weight and who probably would do better in blackface and as a con shouter.

The show itself is lively, boasts of tuneful music, and is good for more than two hours of clean, wholesome entertainment.

Talk of the Town

"Oh Daddy" is the name of the big jazz musical comedy which comes to the McSwain one night, Thursday, November 18. It will be the talk of the town the day after its appearance here. So get busy and phone for your seats. If you miss it you will be sorry. If "Oh Daddy" continues at the rate it is going now it will be easy for it to become a huge success everywhere as fame precedes attraction at all times and the public quickly seizes a good article of pleasure like anything else. Staged complete with beautiful new scenery, costumes, etc., the exceptional cast headed by Colton and Darrow. With a youthful good looking chorus that can sing and dance "Oh Daddy" company is in deed metropolitan in its airs. Twenty song hits are liberally interpolated, the most attractive being "Oh Daddy," "The Rainbow Widow," "Whistling and Giggling" (duet), "Just Plain Gladys," "Good Men Are Going Every Day," "The Older They Are The Harder They Fall," "Wedding Chimes," "It Will Be Me next," "What's the Difference" (trio) "Oh Daddy" is a hit.

At the Liberty

Tsuri Aoki, the Japanese Bernhardt, whom most theatregoers remember as leading woman (and wife) of Sessue Hayakawa, but who was a star in her own right even before her husband gained fame, appeared as the star of "The Breath of the Gods" at the Liberty Theatre last night and completely captivated the heart of every person in the large audience.

As an actress Miss Aoki can give pointers to many of her American sisters. In her role of Yuki Onda, the Japanese girl who is sent to America to learn the way of the Occident so that she may serve her country in its hour of need, she appears first as an unsophisticated debutante in Washington society. Then love enters her heart in the person of Pierre LeBeau, attache of the Austrian legation. Her meeting with Prince Hagane, the daimyo of her clan, who is visiting America, provides the first sinister note in her life, and then comes the summons from her father to return to Japan.
